PANAMA - ANOTHER CUBA

Though the United States rightly wants to be a good neighbor to the Latin republic in this hemisphere, it should never indulge in appeasement of countries in this hemisphere by sacrificing sovereign rights and impeding the security of the Americas. Unhappily, it seems that the Johnson administration may indulge in the ultimate appeasement of Panama with regard to the canal and canal zone.

In light of what has happened in the Caribbean and elsewhere in the world - principally at Cuba, a U.S. backdown on the Panama Canal issue could be fatal to the best interests of the United States and other countries in this hemisphere.

Since the communists came to power in Russia, their propaganda has hammered at U.S. control of the Panama Canal. The communists understand that the U.S. would suffer a terrible blow if the inter-oceanic canal were lost. They recognize how much the communist world has gained by the ousting of the British from the Suez Canal, and they hope for a similar success in the Panamanian inferno.

U.S. sovereign rights over the canal and canal zone were confirmed in a solemn treaty signed by Panama and ratified by the United States. No Panamanian government can take away from the United States the authority it rightfully possesses under this treaty. Only the U.S. Senate can abandon the rights enjoyed by the United States, and that it should never do, no matter how much the President may plead.

The U.S. is on the wrong course with respect to Panama. Since the 1950s, there have been many riots and threats of riot against U.S. citizens living in the isthmus. These riots have been organized to bring pressure against the United States in sparking revolution in Panama - revolution aimed at seizure of the strategic waterway.

Several administrations have erred in handling the problem. They have bowed to pressure from the blackmailers. As a result, the canal has been in jeopardy.

as well as U.S. citizens. Chile and Peru, for example, are utterly dependant on efficient operation of the Panama Canal. Yet no one could offer any evidence supporting the view that Panama has the technical competence and political stability essential to the management of the Panama Canal.

It would be a mistake, of course, to regard the future of the Panama Canal simply as a case of Panamanian nationalism. Behind the Panamanian view, the ambitions of the Soviet Union and its Caribbean satellite, Red Cuba, since Fidel Castro first grabbed power in Havana, he has been interested in sparking revolution in Panama - revolution aimed at seizure of the strategic waterway.

Law and Crime

By John Edgar Hoover, Director, Federal Bureau of Investigation, from the August issue of the FBI Law Enforcement Bulletin.

OFTEN WE HEAR THE CHARGE that law enforcement lives in a world of its own, out of touch with reality and the mainstream of our society. This is a baseless charge and should be refuted each time it is heard.

The truth is that law enforcement, by the very nature of its responsibilities, is in much closer touch with the public than are most other professions. The officer on the beat, the patrolman in the cruiser, and the sergeant at the desk know far more about people and what they are thinking than do the sophisticated theorists who issue "authoritative" appraisals of criminality from within ivory-tower offices.

It has also been suggested that law enforcement remains dormant while other professions forge ahead to new realms of achievement and growth. Some critics say that law enforcement is satisfied to mark time, insulate itself from change, and turn its back on progress. They imply that law enforcement is largely responsible for the Nation's crime problem. This may be an easy hypothesis to accept if a person is looking for a scapegoat. However, it is an erroneous conclusion, and it reflects the shallow reasoning of someone who little, if any, practical experience in or knowledge of enforcing the law.

For years, responsible law enforcement leaders have been waging a relentless, although often futile, battle to modernize and professionalize law enforcement. Their pleas, warnings, and exhortations for the most part have fallen on deaf ears.

Only recently has the voice of law enforcement received any appreciable response, and that has come about mainly because crime has reached such proportions that it can no longer be ignored by our Nation to its ruin.

The annals of law enforcement are replete with examples of achievement - and that achievement, progressive, effective enforcement, keyed to human relations, has been a continuing goal of career officials. While struggling without adequate funds and without public support, law enforcement has always been receptive to, and where possible has applied, all scientific developments and technological breakthroughs which would enable it to do a better job and to improve its standards.

Police officials know from experience that crime prevention and enforcement of the law are a bit more complicated than the supervision of a church picnic. Sociological dreamers notwithstanding, crime cannot be explained away. It can be given aliases, but by any other name it is still crime - violations of the laws of our land. And it is still increasing.

It is not surprising, therefore, to note that many who in the past chose to minimize the danger of crime and to ignore police pleas for help now quite charitably choose to place much of the blame for soaring criminality at the door of law enforcement. While law enforcement has its shortcomings, to charge that it is by choice out of step with progress is an admission of ignorance.

THE FARM FRONT

Consumers Council Marks Milestone

By Doyle Connor

Commissioner of Agriculture

When the Legislature voted into law the first Consumers Council ever established in the state on July 11, it marked a milestone in Florida history.

The Council, composed of the leaders of 20 of Florida's largest, consumer-oriented organizations, will serve as a clearing house, where the man on the street can take his problem and seek satisfaction of a grievance.

A key in the Florida Department of Agriculture long has sought establishment of such a body, which will in effect, become the "official voice" of Florida's consuming public.

It will be much more than a sounding board for consumer complaints since, by its very existence and interest, the Council will assure food dealers protection against unfair, illicit competition.

As most of you are aware, the Florida Department of Agriculture, it has been the state's leading consumer protection agency, since the Department was established 70 years ago.

Under the Department's regulatory programs, the consumer is assured of receiving only the best grade of foodstuffs, while gasoline and brake fluids are constantly inspected to see that they meet the State of Florida's rigid quality requirements.

Complaints filed with the Consumers Council will be handled with a simple, two-step procedure.

Complaints filed with the Department will receive the special attention of the Department's Director of Consumer Services, Robert J. Bishop.

The Consumer Services office will determine the nature of a complaint if it falls within the jurisdiction of the Department.

partment of Agriculture's nine divisions.

If a complaint is valid, then an investigation will be made.

If the nature of the complaint falls within the jurisdiction of another state agency, then the matter will be referred to that agency.

Even though the disposition of a complaint is not within the jurisdiction of the Department of Agriculture, the Department will follow up any action taken and will receive a report from the state agency "rounding like a fowl" if the complaint is not properly handled.

In this manner, the Department will be able to determine if additional regulations are needed to improve or strengthen its Consumer Services program.

Any valid complaint received by the Department of Agriculture, through the Consumers Council will be acted upon expeditiously and to the best ability of the Department.

The Florida Department of Agriculture takes the position that the best remedy for reducing the state of the unscrupulous operator is public exposure.

By establishing the Consumers Council, the Department is serving notice that we will stand idly by while Florida becomes a haven for every fly-by-night gyp artist who seeks to set up shop.

I am very pleased that a member of Florida's farming community has taken time from his busy schedule to write me a letter, expressing his opinion on the management of this nation's agricultural industry.

The observations made by Mr. E. H. Wilding of Crescent City are, I believe very pertinent and therefore I am passing them on to you.

Mr. Wilding writes that, down through the years, he has watched the nation's farm population continue to dwindle and cities "poor management of our agricultural industry."

He has seen the farmer's income dwindle and the farmer's standard of living decline.

The first mistake made was cutting the farmer's income "year after year," Mr. Wilding says and adds, "The second mistake was the farmer's own fault. He was not paying for his product."

On the establishment of the bank by the federal government, Mr. Wilding says it is "paying a man for acres of land he doesn't plant."

All this, Mr. Wilding adds, "sums up why the farm population is decreasing and it is spelling a tragic end to this country's food supply if things don't change."

"People today cannot be expected to live on a farm (and that's what it is) and get nothing for their troubles, while other people are living the life of luxury," Mr. Wilding states.

Some other observations by Mr. Wilding are, "The farmer is the backbone of this country and it's about time the leaders of this nation realize the fact and do something about it. It is not already too late."

"This country is a waste and given away more farm products than any other nation in the world. This cannot be kept up without a break somewhere."

"I have been a farmer myself, so I know what I'm talking about," Mr. Wilding states, adding, "politicians 'never speak of the shortage of food shortage, because of the food shortage we are facing and the high cost of food. As I have stated before, it looks as though Florida farmers are overlooking the dangers which are threatening to drive them out of business."

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Top, Not Cut, Brazilian Oaks

The following letter was sent to both the Belle Glade Herald and County Commissioner E. W. Weaver.

July 28, 1967

Once again we hear the proposal that all Brazilian Oaks bordering our highways be destroyed. The reason given being that during storms these trees or their branches are liable to block the highways, or even fall on cars. It is also stated that the original purpose of these trees, was to prevent cars from running into the canal, is no longer required, since many miles of highways now have guard rails.

I believe you will find that the majority of local citizens would strongly object to the removal of these trees. In the vast, almost treeless plain of the Everglades such trees are a distinctive attraction to the landscape. They also furnish a welcome shade in summer. In any case, removal of the trees would not be necessary. It was about in 1950 that the money for planting trees and branches was corrected by topping the trees at a height of 15 feet. So far as I know, this was satisfactory for a considerable number of years, but that was over 25 years ago. Now it would appear that the political career of B. Elliott, then speaker of the House of Representatives, who was blamed for the drastic cutting.

I believe that you will find that again trimming these trees some fifteen feet above ground level will solve the problem for many years to come. So "woodman, spare the branches and the trees."

Respectfully yours,

L. E. Will

Uncle Dan from Doolie Says

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Zake Grubb's preacher came by the country store Saturday night to get a few groceries and he told the feller he had saw in some magazine where the price of food would go up 50 per cent in the next five year.

Afore Clem Webster could get started on one of his Great Society spend-more-and-live-better sermons, the Good Pastor added it was folks with fixed income that was getting hit by this creeping price disease. For instance, he said, he was in one of them fixed income groups like retired folks. If he could get on welfare or social security, where they was increasing the payments pretty steady, he said things would be good. He didn't see no chance of the collection plate in his church getting 50 per cent fuller in the next five year.

This talk about the collection plate got some of the feller's mighty uneasy and Clem took this item off the agenda right fast by saying it was the little woman in the kitchen that could make or break a feller. He allowed as how, if a wife stayed at home, cooked, looked after the younguns, made a good garden and canned plenty of fruit and vegetables, a feller could make it fine.

The Good Pastor didn't say nothing and I figured he didn't think much of Clem's idea. He just gathered up his groceries and said goodbye.

After he was gone, Zake allowed as how the Good Pastor was giving a heap of benefits he ferget to mention. For instance, said Zake, they got a heap of gardens among the congregation and they was always sharing with the preacher. And he reported the wimmen in the congregation sold vanilla flavoring for 10 mile around to raise money to put a air conditioner in the preacher's house so they could hold their summer suppers in the fall, and the preacher got to use it the rest of the time. Furthermore, claimed Zake, when they have them suppers they bring their own food that they have enough left over to last the preacher three or four days.

I figured, Mister Editor, this was Zake's way of saying he didn't aim to increase his share of the collection plate.

The feller that runs the store hurried in to say if some of his customers didn't get to paying their bills better he was going up 50 per cent without waiting for the five-year plan. He claimed he had one customer that would rather lie on credit than tell the truth for cash.

Things was getting such a bad fix at the store, Mister Editor, that if you hear the feller's having a good word for somebody you better look in the paper and see if he ain't died during the week.

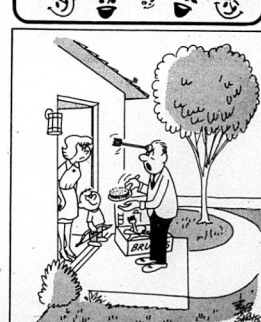

Yours truly,

Uncle Dan

MYF ACTIVITIES

A "Tacky" party was held at the First Methodist Church last Tuesday for Junior and Senior high young people.

Each person put on his "tackiest" clothes and met his friends at Jamison Hall.

Novelty prizes were given for the "tackiest" girl and boy in the Junior and Senior groups. Ray Minor and Penny Boyd were the "tackiest" in the Junior high group, and Mary Leigh Ametree and Syd Smith were the "tackiest" in the Senior high group.

In the Senior high group, the "contestants" for the prizes paraded across the stage and were judged.

Tonight from 7 to 10 p.m. there will be a pool party for both groups and afterward refreshments will be served at Cardinal Leonard's home.

Last Sunday night the Junior high young people met for their discussion group and Senior high group met at Dennis Baldwin's home. The topic of the discussions was "Honest Self-Inspection." Sunday the Senior high discussion entitled "Conversation With God," will be held at the home of Caroline Leonard, and the Junior high discussion will be before church.

SERMONETTE

'We're All Troubled'

"Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid," here in a capsule sentence we have the predicament of modern man. We are all troubled - and, afraid. We are troubled by the situation of the world about us. We wonder where it is all going to end. We see more dark clouds than bright. The forecast is for more stormy weather than fair. We are troubled and because we don't know what to do about our troubles we are afraid for the future - even tomorrow is frightening.

But there is a sure answer to our troubles and our fears. We have the promise of God who created us that he has made provision for us to find our way out of our trouble and to find hope in the place of our fear. The answer is Jesus Christ. The answer is God himself who wants to put our minds and hearts at ease.

Most of our troubles and fears have their root in that we think that we are self-sufficient creatures and that we do not need outside help. But if we are honest with ourselves we know better. We know that we desperately need help to solve our problems. We can have this help if we really want it. God stands ready and willing to let you put your life in his charge. He wants you to know his peace and his freedom.

In a recent public opinion poll more than 90 per cent of the people polled said they believed in God. You probably count yourself in that 90 per cent. What does it mean to believe in God? If it means simply that it is a convenient way to explain the universe then the promise that he makes in his Word will not be yours and you will continue to be caught up in the troubles of the world and fear will be constantly at your side. But if you believe in the sense of trusting him then as you call upon him for help you will know his peace.

Have you recently turned to God for help? Have you really trusted him? Are you willing to let him direct your life? Prayer. O God, give us the courage to trust you completely. We know that our hearts will to continue restless until we rest in you, Amen.

Rev. J. Paul Vondracek
Everglades Presbyterian Church
Belle Glade, Fla.

ABOUT a year ago, Mrs. Ward and I spent an afternoon in the home of Bishop and Mrs. Friedrich Wunderlich in Frankfurt, Germany. Though the day was rainy and cold, we found an abundance of warmth and comfort inside this friendly home.

We talked of many matters—issues of the day, concerns of the church, family interests. I noticed in one conversation, though it did not hit upon the conversation.

The next day when the bishop's name was mentioned, a pastor said, "Oh, yes, our bishop, he's a friend of the stars." I remembered the telescope, and understood the unique compliment.

God has made each of us a little lower than the angels and endowed us with capacity for the upward look. It is in our destiny to be friends with noble thoughts, capacities of exalted experiences, persons rooted in worship and prayer, disciples of the living Christ.

American Society, Is It Great, Affluent or Corrupt

By Lewis Llewellyn

The society in which we live has been variously described. Some, referring to the long-continued prosperity which we have enjoyed, have dubbed it the "affluent society." Others, perhaps thinking more of a goal than of an achievement, have described it as a "great society."

But, on a recent nationwide television program, one of the panel members, an eminent columnist, said, "We live in a corrupt society."

His statement went unchallenged, other members of the panel apparently accepting his appraisal of the society in which we live.

IS IT TRUE?

Do you agree with this? Are we living in a corrupt society? If so, why—and what should be done about it?

We have more airliners to whisk us in comfort from place to distant place than ever before in the history of the world. We have more color television sets, more sport cars, more luxuries of every kind than people could have imagined when this country was established.

Yet, at the same time, we have more crime, more immorality, more fears, more tenacious, more unreasoning about the future. Why?

Is it because we are increasingly leaving God out of the picture?

HOLLOW MOCKERY?

Is the motto which appears on our coins—"In God We Trust"—now only a hollow mockery?

Many educators have interpreted the Supreme Court's decisions as, in effect, ruling God out of our schools. Is this a good thing?

Has it happened to us, as the Bible tells us it happened to some in other times, that "even as they did not like to retain God in their knowledge, God gave them over to a reprobate mind, to do those things which are not fitting?" If this is the case, can we not expect that there will be a further decline in morality and a still greater increase in crime?

REMEDY

Is there a remedy?

Yes, and it is found in the word of the Lord which Dwight Eisenhower quoted when he was first inaugurated as president of the United States: "If My people, which are called by My name, shall humble themselves and pray and seek My face, and turn from their wicked ways, then will I hear from heaven and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land."

When we struggle with many things, and find them difficult to cope with by personal effort, turn to the loving Christ, and let Him fill your heart with peace and our minds with light. Let's leave our lives in His care.

Lion Country Safari To Open August 29

Tuesday, August 29, has been designated as opening day for Lion Country Safari. England's Richard Chipperfield, vice president and zoological director of the $3.3 million wild-game preserve has assembled hundreds of animals for the attraction located along U.S. Highway 98, six miles west of Royal Palm Beach.

Included in the recently-imported menagerie are more than 100 lions, all roaming free along auto lanes winding over the 640-acre tract.

Along with other wild animals, including elephants, rhinoceroses, zebras, giraffes, wild beasts, herds of antelopes, chimpanzees, and such exotic birds as ostriches and East African crested cranes, the pride of lions will be mingling with motorists from 9 a.m. until dusk every day.

Among the star attractions will be 7,000-pound Gus, the world's largest white rhino in captivity. Shortly joining Gus on Rhino Island will be his three-ton "sweetheart" from Uganda.

Another exciting lure will be Pets Corner, operated by Belgium's famed animal handler Beatrice Danté.

There will be numerous other attractions with authentic African motif, but the greatest thrill of Lion Safari will come in the "eyeball to eyeball" confrontation with free-roaming lions.

Motorists may stay in their cars and keep their windows rolled up (air-conditioned cars are available at a slight rental), and normal safari rules must be obeyed. Convertibles may be exchanged at the main gate for the air-conditioned rental sedans.

Big-game trapper Chipperfield and his seasoned cadre of armed bush-trained animal handlers will be patrolling the grounds constantly in radio-equipped safari vehicles. They control the great beasts with skillful ease and cautious respect.

At Lion Country Safari, as on the sprawling savannas of Africa, the lion plays a regal role, while avoiding the howling elephant and the moody rhino. Visitors will see giraffes, zebras, antelopes, and other "lion delicacies" grazing in full view of their natural enemies.

Lion Country Safari is patterned after England's popular Lions of Longleaf, recently featured in a full magazine, but is much larger and far more varied. Admission charge will be $2.50 for adults, and $1.25 for children under 14.

Q. What requirements must I meet to qualify for a J-1 classification as an undergraduate college student?

A. You must file a written request with your local board for deferment as an undergraduate college student. Additionally, you must provide your local board each year with convincing evidence that you are continuing to pursue satisfactorily a full-time course of instruction at a college, university or similar institution of learning.

Consumers advertising, food publicity and the Bell Florida's heavy summer vacation traffic got you coming and going?

Colonel H. N. Kirkman, Commanding Officer of the Florida Highway Patrol, asked this question of Florida motorists today pointing to the fact that this week marks the midpoint and peak of the heavy travel for the summer vacation season.

"Our highways are the fastest ever right about now with some people returning home, while on the same roads others are just starting out on vacation," said Kirkman.

The Patrol reminds motorists to plan your vacation so that you have plenty of time to reach your destination and return in comfort. This means a minimum of night driving, no speeding or slowpoke driving on super highways and no

Jaycees Held Caucus

Seventy-seven Jaycees met at the Belle Glade Marina Sunday for the 16th District Caucus.

The 77 Jaycees brought about 50 wives and 60 or 70 children to the Marina for the Caucus. Sunday's activities which included church services by Rev. Richard Roseman of St. Peter's Lutheran Church, The Jaycees, after lunch, conducted their business meeting at which club presidents gave a report of activity. H. D. Lee, president, Belle Glade, told the group that local Jaycee membership stood at 103 and that much of the club's energy had gone toward preparing for the first district Caucus to be held in the Glades for about five years. The club is also planning to re-establish the Blood Bank and organize and bolster support from coastal Civic Clubs to the four-lane of State Road 80.

J. C. Swindle, President of the Clewiston Club told the Caucus work was progressing on the youth camp in the Clewiston area. The club, he said, has also supplied the city with litter barrels.

Other Clubs, attending included Havahill, Jupiter-Teniente, Lake Worth, North Palm Beach, Palm Beach Gardens, Palm Springs, Riviera Beach, Lake Park and West Palm Beach.

Other Caucus activities included a Saturday night dance until 4 a.m., to country music at the marina, and a fishing and golf tournament.

Palm Beach Junior College Fees, Pay Still Uncertain

Changes in teacher salaries or student fees, or both, "will probably be made when we find out how much we will get from the state in the next two years," Dr. Harold C. Manor, president of Palm Beach Junior College said Thursday.

The budget now under consideration by the county school board will be amended if additional funds become available, he said.

"We were required to have our budget signed and in the mail to Tallahassee Monday night," Dr. Manor explained. "We were forced by this deadline to prepare a budget prior to finding out exactly how much we can spend."

The current budget calls for a $23 per term hike in student fees, and increases of $350, $500 and $650 for teachers.

Most PBJC teachers hold Master's degrees, and would get the $500 raise.

"I believe our Advisory Board would like to increase instructional salaries beyond these amounts," Dr. Manor said, "and I know they would like to avoid increases in student fees, if possible."

"If support funds allow them to do so, I am confident they will recommend appropriate amendments to the budget."

"As soon as we can possibly do so, we will announce final student fee figures for this year, as well as whether salary adjustments can be made," Dr. Manor said.
